Plan Fire Escape For Science Bldg.

Campus improvement plans for Loyola include the erection of a fire escape on the Science Building and construction of a walk across the lawn in front of the Faculty House.

At the open session student council meeting on February 20, the Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., announced that an architect has been commissioned to erect the fire escape in the Spring.

The Rev. Robert P. Arthur, S. J., has announced that a walk will be constructed across the lawn in front of the Faculty House so that students may be able to travel from the Library and Science Buildings to the Dell Buildings with less difficulty during inclement weather.

Marksman Buy Munition Stock

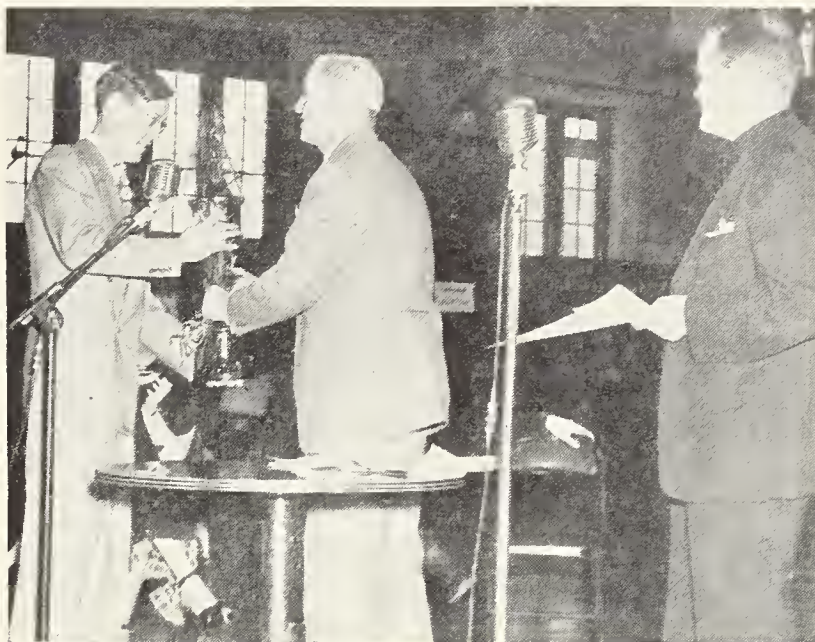

Twenty-thousand rounds of ammunition have been received by the Rifle Club for use in its practice sessions and tournaments during the remainder of the scholastic year.

The newly-formed organization has applied for admission to the National Rifle Association and expects to obtain its charter in the next two weeks.

Stanley S. Stone, president of the Club, announced that rifles have been ordered for those members who do not own them. Membership in the club is one dollar per year. The membership fee entitles a member to use a Club rifle and one thousand rounds of ammunition.

Stone stated that no previous experience was required and that anyone joining the Club without previous experience would be instructed thoroughly in the use of firearms.

At the present time, the Club is practicing at the Calvert Hall range where it is engaging in a series of eliminations to determine the various teams.

Three Hundred Delegates Attend Press Meet Here

Over three hundred delegates from Maryland, Washington and Pennsylvania met at Loyola last Sunday to participate in the Sixth Annual Catholic Press Conference.

Following the celebration of Mass by the Rev. Atlee F. X. Devereux, S. J., the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., President of the College, addressed the delegates assembled in the Gym.

Tournaments Held

One of the innovations of this year's meet was the participation of all high schools in a tournament which stressed news, feature and sports writing.

The press tournament was under the chairmanship of Brother Martin John, C. F. X., of Mt. St. Joseph's High School. Spencer L. Davidson, Francis X. Gallagher, Donald E. Fay, James Dietz, and William Heffner assisted the group chairmen in rating the papers. The chairmen were Mr. Vincent Tubbs, Dr. Regis Boyle, Miss May Murray, Tommy Dukehart, Harold Williams and Robert Elmer.

Murphy Speaks

The main speaker at the afternoon general session was Mr. James Murphy of the Brooklyn Eagle. After giving a speech emphasizing the growing importance of Catholic writers in the newspaper field, Mr. Murphy presented prizes to the winners of the morning tournament. He also gave cups to the winners of the Maryland-D. C. area contest judged by the New York Catholic Institute of the Press. In the college class, THE GREYHOUND won the Trockenbrot Press trophy as the best collegiate paper in the area, edging out the Dunbarton College Dial, the Trinity Times and the Columns of the College of Notre Dame.

Debaters Plan Weekend Trip

Loyola's Robert Bellarmine Debating Society will travel outside the state of Maryland for the first time this year when four of its members entrain for Pennsylvania to engage in debates today, tomorrow and Sunday.

This afternoon Dudley M. Shoemaker and Francis A. Pacienza will engage Swarthmore College on the National Topic at Evergreen. The Loyola team will argue the affirmative issues of "Resolved: That A Federal World Government Should be Established."

Teams Away

At the same time that Loyola is debating at home with Swarthmore, another Loyola team, composed of Donald E. Fay and Francis X. Gallagher, will be arguing the negative side of the National Topic at Swarthmore, Pennsylvania. Also at 7:00 p. m. that evening, John Evelius and Lawrence Mooney will meet Rosemont College.

The latter group will engage University of Pennsylvania the next evening while Gallagher and Fay meet the Temple Council of Debate earlier that afternoon, February 28.

Two On Sunday

The final debates of the weekend take place on Sunday afternoon and evening when the same two sets of debaters will engage St. Joseph's, Philadelphia and Villanova in Philadelphia.

During the week of March 1, Loyola will engage in three debates. The colleges to be met are Washington, Western Maryland and Catholic University.

Morality Play Scheduled For Passion Sunday

"Everyman," the famous Morality Play of the Middle Ages, will be presented by the Mask and Rapier Dramatic Society of Loyola College on Passion Sunday, March 14, in the Gym at Evergreen.

Robert S. Custer has been named Student Director of the presentation by Mr. William-M. J. Driscoll, S. J., the Moderator of the Dramatic Society.

Presented Last Year

The play was presented last year on Passion Sunday. With few exceptions, those students who took part in the play last year will assume the same roles in this year's presentation.

Because of the large audience which attended last year, it was thought more advisable to present this year's show in the Gym instead of the Library Auditorium. A special set is being designed for the presentation.

Actors Listed

William Heffner will again portray the role of Everyman. The other roles will be played by Robert Gallagher, Francis Gallagher, Robert Nayden, David Nottingham, Robert Custer, William Carver, Daniel Shehan, Richard Rebbert, Cyril Keller and Francis Pacienza.

Other actors include Joseph Smith, Edward Clarke, Emerson Clarke and Theodore Heying. The Business Committee is preparing the invitations for the parents of the students and friends of the college.

Plau Parish Shows

After presentation at Evergreen, the show will be presented in the auditoriums of several parishes throughout the city. The scenery will be transported to the parishes for the show.

Rehearsals have been in progress for the last two weeks. The cast meets twice weekly and will continue to do so until the week before the show when it will meet five times.

Send Notices

Edward O. Clarke, Business Manager of the show, is preparing to send out twenty-eight hundred notices of the presentation. James Bradley, THE GREYHOUND Staff Cartoonist, has drawn an illustration for the notices.

The cast is rehearsing three nights a week at the present time. The number of rehearsals will be stepped up next week.

An Explanation

THE GREYHOUND regrets that it has to depart from the publication of its usual eight page issue. However, it was found necessary to publish four pages for this issue to keep within its budget limitations.

To relieve this situation and to return to our regular eight page issues, THE GREYHOUND is conducting an extensive advertising campaign.

We urge all interested students to obtain ad blanks from Calvert Kenning, Business Manager, in THE GREYHOUND office and assist the Staff in procuring ads. A 15% commission is paid on all ads obtained.

Farley Will Address Alumni On March 30

James A. Farley, former Postmaster-General of the United States, will be the principal speaker at the Annual Loyola College Alumni Association Banquet on March 30, at the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

Toastmaster for the event will be the Honorable William J. McWilliams, '26 former judge of the Circuit Court, it was announced by Clarence J. Rodgers, Banquet Chairman.

Deadline Named

Tuesday, March 23 is the absolute deadline for both making and paying for reservations. Members who have not been contacted are urged to call the Alumni Office at Belmont 9730.

Farley, sixty years old and the father of two children, started as a bookkeeper in 1906 and rose to the position of Democratic National Chairman and Postmaster General of the United States by 1932.

His latest book, concerning his break with President Roosevelt, created a nation-wide stir. He is also the author of another work entitled Behind the Ballots.

James A. Farley

Farley received degrees from Canisius College in Buffalo, Manhattan College and Niagara University, Villanova and St. Ambrose College. He was named to represent New York State as a delegate to four National Democratic Conventions.

Good Hosts

Next week-end Loyola plays host to seven other conference schools when the Evergreen gymnasium becomes the scene of the eighth annual Mason-Dixon Conference Basketball Tournament.

The Greyhounds, busily winding up the most successful season any Loyola court squad ever experienced, will be favored to retain the championship they won last year. But there will be seven other teams there with different ideas, and plenty of fans supporting them who'll be rooting for an upset.

Let's remember, no matter what happens, that we're in the host role this year. Cheer the Hounds into another championship, but be gentlemanly about it. Most of all, don't ride the referees too much. They call them the way they see them.

Number, Please!

Discounting signal flags and carrier pigeons, Loyola's student body was helpless last week as far as communication with the outside world was concerned. The public telephones were deadlier than Alexander Graham Bell.

The cafeteria phone, restored to use with the end of the televised basketball games, lasted three days and gave up the ghost. The phone in the basement of the Science Building continued to wear an "Out of Order" sign.

But the last straw came on Thursday afternoon when the pay station phone in the Gymnasium, which has been bearing the load gallantly for the past month, collapsed from over-work.

Since students are unable to use telephones connected to the main switchboard, the only possible alternate is to trudge to Greemount Avenue—hardly an enjoyable constitutional in winter weather.

Would it be possible to have a grand conclave between school officials and those who control the destiny of the C & P to iron out the matter? Or are there any veterans on the campus with Signal Corps experience?

In Loving Memory

"In living memory of her 1200 sons who served in World War II and of the twenty-eight who paid the supreme sacrifice in that conflict, Loyola College plans to erect a Chapel—'Our Lady's Chapel of Evergreen'."

Thus began the lead story in THE GREYHOUND of March 8, 1946, reporting the beginning of a drive to erect a new chapel at Loyola. The words were those of the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., former President of the College.

Now the Very Rev. Francis X. Talbot, S. J., Father Bunn's successor, has announced that he plans to carry the work through to completion. Our Lady's Chapel of Evergreen will have first priority over all other long range planning at Loyola.

Father Talbot turned first for help to the student body. He was answered with an emphatic "Yes!" by Dudley Shoemaker, President of the Student Council. When the time comes for action, let's prove that Dudley's were not merely empty words.

Dean Announces Tutoring Rules

All tutoring must be completed by or on March 12, it was announced by the Office of the Dean. All students required to tutor must complete at least ten hours of instruction.

Examinations will be given from March 15 to 19th. All fees are payable at the Treasurer's Office by March 5.

The names of all those who are required to tutor and the instructors have been posted on the Dean's Bulletin Board.

Archbishop Keough

The Cathedral of the Assumption became the scene this week of solemn splendor and colorful ceremony as His Excellency Francis P. Keough was installed as the eleventh Archbishop of Baltimore. It was fitting, therefore, that the new prelate talked of Mary to the vast throng that packed the Basilica.

"Mary is our Hope," he said, keynoting his sermon with the phrase found on his archepiscopal coat-of-arms. In the face of despair and social revolution sweeping over the world today, our only salvation is to place reliance in the Mother of God.

By way of greetings to the new Archbishop, may we of Evergreen assure him that Loyola College does place its reliance in the Blessed Mother. Our two sodalities—senior and junior—are more active than ever. Soon we shall build the Chapel of Our Lady of Evergreen.

To Archbishop Keough—welcome and prayers for success from all who are in any way connected with Loyola.

Evergreen Scenes

by Frank Gallagher

A weekly metamorphosis occurs when several Loyola College students are transformed, for the want of financial solidarity, into cab drivers. Pursuing this highly unpredictable occupation furnishes the student with some explosive material for sociological and psychological research.

Talking to one of the Loyola students who spends his week-ends driving Mr. and Mrs. Citizen around the streets of Baltimore with one eye on the road and the other on a history book, I was surprised to learn that a high powered hack driver can earn as much as sixty dollars per week-end. Of course, this presumes that he has overcome his fears of cab-robbing ghouls who wander the streets by night.

One case which evoked a round of laughter was told last week in THE GREYHOUND Office. It seems that one of our Loyolans was riding a fare to his home on Pennsylvania Avenue at three in the morning. The cabbie suddenly heard the six footer in the rear bark out a gruff order to turn out the headlights and pull over to the curb.

Obediently, he sat awaiting what he knew not. Then a long hand reached over his shoulder and handed him a half dollar. The fare spoke up, "The reason ah askt you to put out the lights was because the folks in mah house are asleep and ah didn't want to wake them up." After his blood began to recirculate, it took the cabbie just five minutes to get his hack back into the garage for the night.

One out of every three fares tips. However, you have to be a modern Merlin to tell who is going to tip. One woman unburdened the woes which plagued her unhappy mind concerning the trouble she was hav-

Not only did he pay his fare, but he managed to find an extra dollar bill for the cabbie's tip. It wasn't the cleanest dollar bill he had ever seen;—but he took it.

Running with the Hounds

by Don Fay, Sports Editor

IT'S TOURNAMENT TIME again, and both the basketball team and wrestling crew will engage in Mason-Dixon tourney action during the next week.

The grapplers, bent on gaining some success in a generally drab season, head for Westminster this afternoon for a two-day stand at Western Maryland College.

Lefty Reitz's cage men stay at home, of course, for the M-D get-together which starts next week. Barring upset, the Hounds should be active Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Last year, the tourney had thrills galore, with Loyola's tilts with American U. and Mount Saint Mary's providing the maximum of excitement.

Speaking of tournaments and the season's close, it's also time for All-Conference selections. Any group which is supposed to include the best players in the conference would be a joke without at least four of the Hounds' players. We'll have the Hounds' players.

Lacy Sets New Mark With 44

Latest national scoring figures released this week found Jim Lacy's 44 point total tops in the country for an individual game this season.

Another milestone in Jim Lacy's basketball career was marked on February 14 when Loyola defeated Western Maryland, 74-49. The tall Loyola star stepped on to the Westminster court and proceeded to break the Mason-Dixon Conference individual scoring record by tossing in 44 points.

Lacy threw in 18 field goals in 29 attempts (a phenomenal average) and added 8 of 10 foul attempts to eclipse his own 37-point standard set last year against Mt. St. Mary's.

Matmen Open M-D Tourney

Heartened by their improvement toward the season's close, Loyola's varsity grapplers are poised for opening action in the annual Mason-Dixon grappling tournament which is booked this afternoon at Towson Teachers.

Phil Goodman, Hound coach, looks for a potent Loyola representation. All his matmen have girded for this tourney, and hope to salvage partial recognition despite a losing record.

Hounds Clinch League Crown; Play Washington

Loyola beat Hopkins, 77-41, on Wednesday to clinch M-D crown.

Thwarted by American University last Monday night for their first loss in Mason-Dixon competition, Loyola's Greyhounds hope to hit the win column tomorrow night against Washington College. It will be the team's final tuneup prior to the M-D tourney next week-end.

Two victories over Mt. St. Mary's within six days pushed Lefty Reitz's cagers farther ahead of the M-D pack in the race for conference cage honors.

Loyola won a 62-41 contest at Evergreen on February 12, then paid a visit to the Frederick Armory on the eighteenth and eked out a thrilling 58-56 decision.

The Hounds opened up early in the home tilt, and rushed to a sizeable lead in the first quarter. The team amassed 38 points in the first half, only 3 tallies short of an Evergreen record.

Every squad member was used by Reitz, as the Mounts failed to threaten although they did increase the tempo in the final half.

In the Frederick test, Loyola held the lead only once, but that was at the end of the game, as Jim Lacy and company roared back after being hopelessly behind by ten points with six minutes to go.

Mike Russo and Pete Clark, the Mounts' shooting stars, hit the cords consistently well in the first three quarters, and the home forces edged ahead to a 49-39 advantage before Loyola started to move.

Lacy, suffering a poor game up to this point, stepped on the gas with a long set shot and a one hander from the foul line. Clark sunk a hook shot, however, and the score was 51-43.

Bill Schanberger came through with a set shot, and Lacy and Russo exchanged goals to bring the visitors to within six points. Loyola then moved to within two points with only two minutes left.

Lacy drove in on the left side and tapped the ball over his shoulder to Paul Feeley who inserted a left handed layup for a tie ball game. Mount St. Mary's moved in, but failed to score. Lacy gained possession, dribbled his way through the Mounts, and flipped in his nineteenth and twentieth points with his patented hook from the left side. That ended the game's scoring at 58-56.

Mason - Dixon Tournament Scheduled Here Next Week

The Athletic Office has announced that student tickets for the tournament will be placed on sale at 4:15 p.m. of the day on which the game is to be played. Student tickets are 85 cents. General admission will be $1.50.

Climax of the Mason-Dixon basketball season takes place next week-end on the Evergreen court, when the conference stages its annual elimination tournament among the top eight teams in the league.

Loyola, champion of the circuit for the regular schedule and defending 1947 champion as well as playoffs titlist, is host this year in games to be played on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 4, 5 and 6.

The eight teams finishing on top in the league will be separated into two brackets of four each. Teams will play within the respective brackets and the winner of each will compete for the championship in the final game Saturday night.

On Thursday evening, all eight teams will see action in a quartet of contests that will offer continuous action beginning at 6:45. The two winners in each bracket will play in the double header Friday night, and the victorious quints will battle Saturday. In the preliminary on Saturday, the two losers on Friday will play in a consolation game.

OFF WE GO—Clint Bamberger is set to hit the water in the 200-yard breaststroke event against Swarthmore.

Swimming

Swarthmore Wins, 41-34

Taking first place in five of nine events, Swarthmore College's swimming team handed Loyola its fourth setback of the season, 41 to 34, last Saturday at Evergreen.

Loyola was victorious in the 300-yard and 400-yard team relays, while John Mohler placed first in diving for the Greyhounds and Clint Bamberger won the 200-yard breaststroke event. Swarthmore took honors in all of the individual events except the 200-yard breaststroke.

Franny Mueller's natators aim to get back in their winning stride next week-end when they travel to American University for the Mason-Dixon tourney.

Vissek Takes Honors In Ping Pong Tourney

Charley Vissek outlasted fifteen other student paddlers to win first prize in the intramural ping pong tournament which closed last week, Franny Mueller has announced.

Junior Class Elects Raphael

Joseph Raphael was elected president of the Class of February, '49, in a special election held last Friday morning, February 20. William Carver was chosen vice-president; Austin Byrd, secretary, and Francis X. Rackensperger, treasurer.

The balloting was conducted by Dudley Shoemaker and James

Joseph Raphael

Norris, representing the Student Council.

William Healy, who had served as class president for the past year, resigned his post as president due to the heavy burden of studies and domestic responsibilities. Healy declined to accept nomination for the post.

About seventy-five members of the class participated in the balloting which was marked by a tie between Byrd and Rackensperger for the office of secretary.

Chessmen Face Two Encounters

Two chess contests have been lined up for the members of Loyola's chess club. The Johns Hopkins School of Health, composed of physicians from Johns Hopkins, and Georgetown are the two opponents whom the Chess Club will meet in the next two weeks.

In a match with the Naval Academy, Loyola failed to down the Middies. However, they were more fortunate when they defeated the chess club representatives of the Engineers Club of Baltimore.

At the present time, the chessmen are preparing for a tour of the New York sector during Easter.

Form Writing Group Here

A Creative Writing Seminar will be inaugurated at Loyola this April for the advancement of those students interested in literature and journalism. Mr. John Pugh has been named Moderator of the new organization.

The organization meeting will be held next week when the editors of the school publications meet with the Moderator to draw up a constitution.

FIRST PLACE

THE GREYHOUND was awarded the Trockenbrot Trophy for winning first place in the College Division of the New York Institute of the Press Contest.

In winning the coveted award, THE GREYHOUND won six first place awards out of eight divisions.

This constitution will be presented to the entire group when the first general meeting is held.

Present plans include addresses by prominent literary men and women in and around Maryland. This will include novel writers, poets, journalists and short story writers.

The entire seminar will be sponsored by the Alpha Sigma Nu, the National Jesuit Honorary Fraternity.

New Glee Club Heads Elected

George Murphy and William Mackey were elected to fill the offices of vice-president and secretary of the Loyola College Glee Club on Friday, February 14.

The election, made necessary by the graduation of the former officers, was conducted by Albert G. Fitzgerald, president of the Club.

Mr. Felice Iula, Director of Music at Loyola and Moderator of the Glee Club, urged the members to be consistent in their attendance at the rehearsals for the Spring Concert which is scheduled for late March or early April.

The Glee Club has been meeting three times weekly to rehearse the numbers which are to be included in the concert. Albert G. Fitzgerald and Niles E. Fields will be the soloists.

Alpha Sigma Nu Chooses New Board Of Officers

J. Allan Panuska was elected president of the Alpha Sigma Nu at the induction ceremonies at Loyola on February 8. Dudley M. Shoemaker was named vice-president; James P. Bailey, secretary; and Richard A. Hartman, treasurer.

Seven seniors were inducted by the Rev. Mathew G. Sullivan, S.J., who presided at the ceremonies. He was assisted by Terrence E. Burke, George Buchness and Dudley M. Shoemaker, who were the three student members of the Club.

List Members

The members inducted were James Bailey, Richard Hartman,

James O'Neill, Allan Panuska, Thomas Gisriel, John Plunkett and Aloysius Galvin.

Following the induction, the members were feted at a Buffet Supper in the Faculty House.

National Society

The Alpha Sigma Nu is a division of the National Jesuit Honor Fraternity. Its members are chosen on the basis of excellence in study, extracurricular activity and loyalty to the school.

The Loyola Chapter meets once a month. A Seminar in Journalism has been proposed by the membership.
